

Professor Richard Davies (Vice-Chancellor)

"Our people share a determination to push boundaries, think differently and achieve more. As an employee, you'll play a crucial part in building our impressive reputation in education, innovation and research. Our success revolves around the people who work here. In return, we'll support, nurture and reward you with generous benefits, from training and development to childcare and flexible working as well as supporting your health and wellbeing. We recognise all our staff have different priorities and lifestyles, so we make sure there are benefits to suit everyone."
